

ROBERT GRAVES ESSAY PRIZE

The Robert Graves Society is pleased to announce its first annual international essay competition.

Essays of up to 3,000 words are invited on any aspect of the literature of the First World War.

A prize of US $500 or equivalent will be awarded to the winner.

The best essays will be selected for publication in Gravesiana.

CLOSING DATE: 30 November 2007

Regulations:

1. Essays must be original, unpublished work in English and not exceed 3,000 words.
2. Entries must be sent as an e-mail attachment in any standard word-processing format to: essay@gravesiana.org.
3. The competition is open to everyone, except for members of the Society's Council and their immediate families.
4. Entries received after the closing date will not be considered.
5. Entries will be judged by the Council of the Robert Graves Society, which reserves the right not to nominate a winner if no entry is found to be of sufficient quality.
6. The Society reserves the right to announce publicly the name of the winner and to publish the best entries in Gravesiana and on its website, for which no separate payment (other than the essay prize) will be made.
7. The winner will be announced in the first issue of Gravesiana to be published after the announcement of the prize.
8. The winner will receive three complimentary copies of the issue of Gravesiana in which the winning essay is published.

These details and any further information about the 2006/07 Essay Prize will be published on the web at: www.robertgraves.org and www.gravesiana.org.
