

Editorial statement

Gravesiana, the journal of the Robert Graves Society, is a peer-reviewed journal which publishes scholarly articles concerning Robert Graves and members of his circle, and reviews of the latest studies about Graves and those connected with him or the subjects of his works. There are also biographical articles which aim to illuminate Graves's relationships with various literary and other contemporaries, as well as providing personal glimpses of the man behind the poetry, fiction, mythography, scholarship and criticism. Gravesiana is an electronic journal available at <http://www.robertgraves.org/gravesiana> and welcomes submissions from all who read its pages. The intention is that it should be a lively and intellectually challenging journal that in some degree reflects the protean spirit of the man to whom it is dedicated.
