Gravesiana, The Journal of the Robert Graves Society

Deadline for submission: 30 March 2018

We are now soliciting articles for the spring 2018 and winter 2019 issues of Gravesiana, The Journal of the Robert Graves Society, a peer-reviewed journal publishing scholarly articles concerning Robert Graves and topics of related interest such as early twentieth century British poetry, World War I and its ongoing influence on contemporary history and culture, early modernist poetry, myth and literature, historical fiction, and twentieth century feminisms. Exploratory critical or creative articles relating to Robert Graves and European media, literature and the writing arts, film, music, art and design, drama and dance or fine art are also welcome.

Articles should be between 3500 and 5000 words. For a style sheet or sample article, please write the editor or see http://www.robertgraves.org/gravesiana/index.php?id=21

All articles will be blind-refereed.

Gravesiana is available as an electronic journal at http://robertgraves.org/gravesiana. Contributors are encouraged to visit our website.

Send submissions and/or questions to:
Michael Joseph, editor,
Gravesiana: The Journal of the Robert Graves Society
mjoseph@rutgers.edu